PALMER HOUSE HOTEL MANAGER CAPTURES 2007 HOSPITALITY BRIDGE AWARD FROM HAROLD WASHINGTON COLLEGE

(Chicago, IL) - Dean Lane, Hotel Manager of the Palmer House Hilton (third from left) was awarded the "Hospitality Bridge Award" by Harold Washington College . The award is given annually to an outstanding Senior Hospitality Professional who is building bridges between the the hospitality industry and Harold Washington College's educational endeavors.

Dean was chosen for the prestigious 2007 award because of his understanding and support of the College's mission in hospitality and that of the community college in general. "During the past year Dean has been generous with his time and expertise in advising our faculty," according to Dr. John Wozniak, president of Harold Washington College. "He has assisted the College in identifying industry specific resources as well as opened the Palmer House's 'inner workings' for our students and provided internships and other 'workplace learning "experiences for our students, Wozniak said.

The award was presented to Lane by (left to right): Dr. Wayne Watson, Chancellor of Chicago City Colleges, Bill Reynolds, Provost of the Washburn Culinary Institute and Dr. Wozniak.
